Grange Matters.

Lakeside Grange held an all day meeting on the 14th inst. The occasion being the installation of officers. The day was a bitter cold one but a large number of visitors were present from neighboring Granges, especially from Crooked River Grange, which had a special invitation. The forenoon meeting was held with closed doors, and the third and fourth degrees were conferred on five candidates. State Deputy C. S. Stetson occupied the chair during the working of the fourth degree, and showed that he was thoroughly posted in the unwritten work. About 150 were seated at the tables and did ample justice to the excellent dinner which had been prepared by the ladies of the Grange.

The afternoon meeting was an open one and a large number of outsiders availed themselves of the privilege of witnessing the installation ceremony, which was performed by State Deputy C. S. Stetson, assisted by Past Master L. W. Blossom of Turner, and by Mrs. E. Walker of Harrison. It was as nice a piece of work in that line as was ever seen in this vicinity. The newly installed officers are as follows:

She had been ill the greater part of the mid-winter vacation. First she suffered an attack of tonsillitis, then came the measles and finally pneumonia, which caused her death at about eight o'clock, Thursday evening.

Particularly sad is the death of Miss Sanderson. She was fitted at Bridgton Academy and then ambitious and determined to have a college education she started in to work her own way through Bates, preferring to do this. Since she entered college, the first vacation which she has had was this in which she died.  Following the installation came a brief address by the retiring Master, Alphonse Moulton, a ringing speech by State Deputy Stetson and brief remarks by Bros.
 Blossom of Turner, Barker of Naples and Reed of Harrison; songs by Lucia Barnard of Bridgton and May Pitts of Harrison, and a piano solo by Mrs. Chas.
 Walker of Harrison. Lamb's orchestra of six pieces was present and gave some excellent music. The meeting closed at a late hour and all pronounced it a grand success. Bros. Stetson and Blossom went from Harrison to Naples, where they installed the officers of Naples Grange the next day.
 The last meeting of Crooked River Grange was the annual installation and harvest festival, and was open to all.
 Lakeside Grange and Frederick Robie Grange had special invitations to attend, and a goodly number of members were present from each, about thirty being present from the former. The officers were duly installed in the forenoon by Bro. George H. Greene of Bridgton, assisted by Bro. A. Moulton and Sister Josephine P. Shedd of Harrison. The officers are as follows:

 Flora—Rosa Knight.
 Lady Assistant Seward—Lizzie Edwards.
 At noon the tables in the spacious dining room were more than twice filled and none went away unsatisfied.
 The afternoon meeting was given up to literary exercises and music, the hall being very nearly filled. First came a bright and very appropriate address from the retiring Master, Bro. N. C. Pinkham, followed by short addresses from Bros.
 W. W. Andrews, A. Moulton, George H.
 Greene, D. D. Brown, W. C. Chabourne, F. J. Sawyer and others. Next came a duet by Sisters Wilbur and Shedd; instrumental music by Sister Vida A. Greene; reading by Sister Josie P. Shedd; song by Bro. A. W. Weston; remarks by Bro.
 Cyrus Brett; the entertainment closing with a farce, "The Greatest Plague on Earth." Music for the afternoon meeting was furnished by Weston's orchestra.
 This Grange was organized in August, 1874, and has been in active existence since that time. To-day it is in a very flourishing condition, owing nothing and with over 125 members.

 Alcock's Plasters. They are safe be-ingredients which are exactly adapted to the purposes for which a plaster is

SOUTH WATERFORD.

Calvin H. Adams, whose illness was reported last week, died on Jan. 17, of pneumonia, aged 59 years. He was a native of Stoneham.

His wife was Abbie, daughter of Joel and Ellen Coburn. They resided in Waterford about thirty five years and were the parents of twelve children, who are all living and of whom six are married: viz, Gertrude married Eugene Kilgore of Portland; Lizzie M. married Daniel Wood of Bridgton; Ethel C. married Colman Packard of Harrison; Bessie M. married James Fitzpatrick of Bridgton; Fred married Ethel Brown of Bridgton; Stella married Walter Shaw of Waterford.

Mr. Adams was a man of excellent character and was much esteemed as a citizen and neighbor. His funeral was held at the house on Saturday, Jan. 19, and was attended by Rev. Mr. Rumball, Llewellyn and Charles Hapgood of Portland and Westbrook, brothers of Mr.
Hapgood, were present. The pall bearers were Augustus Morse, Joseph Haskell and Robbins Plummer. The burial was in Bluevale cemetery.

Lewis Howard and wife of North Bridgton, visited Mrs. Mary Howard, mother of Mr. Howard, last Saturday.

Maina York was much at the house of Calvin Adams during his illness and afterwards, as assistant nurse and helpful friend of the family.

Mrs. James Fitzpatrick of Bridgton, one of the married daughters of the late Calvin Adams, who was at the home of her parents, assisting in the care of her father previous to his decease, is prostrated with LaGrippe, and unable to return to her own home.

The Gilmaine Dramatic Club, composed of Harrison and North Bridgton players, under the management of Garvin Gilmaine, presented the popular comedy "A Texas Steer," at Grange hall, on Friday evening, Jan. 18. The principal characters in the play are Maverick Brander (Garvin Gilmaine) whom in the absence of any synopsis of scenic events, we assume to represent an ex cowboy. He is elected to represent his district in the Congress of the United States. His wife (Miss Louise Pitts) and daughter (Miss Marion Wells, pet of Texas), are much elated over the prospect of their anticipated life in Washington. Capt. Fairleigh Bright, U. S. A. (Samuel J. Davis Jr.) appears in the role of lover of Brander, the Congressman's daughter, but after their removal to Washington, he manifests a difference that causes Miss Bossy Brander to call him to account in a very decided manner. This was one of the striking episodes of the play. The unpleasantness between the lovers was finally compromised by Miss Bossy's leading action to complete reconciliation, which was accomplished in a very charming manner by Miss Wells.
Brassy Gall (H. E. Smith) member of the third House has some humorous interviews with Congressman Brander and secretary Clinton E. Stuart, the private waiter and valet of the Congressman, played the part of the negro servant to perfection. Mrs. Brander and Bossy, as wife and daughter of Hon. Brander, were superb in their roles, and ribbon, but found it impossible to keep it up at last. The evident motive of the play is to "show up" the life and experiences of a member of Congress in Washington, but it is doubtless more in the nature of burlesque than a real picture, though it may show the possibilities existing between a Texas Congressman and his copy who participate in this connection, the scenes in which three of Brander's partisan friends who have appeared to him at his hotel just as he is preparing to sit down to dinner, are disposed of by him and particularly by Mrs. Brander, is perhaps the most laughable and exciting scene in the piece. There is plenty of drinking and smoking of revolvers, enough to suit the taste of the greatest lover of these incidents of all "horse plays." Magister Gilmaine is an "old stage" and thoroughly versed in the arts of the stage and walks, talks and looks like a veteran. On account of much sickness and a stormy day the audience was not very large.
